FLASH FLOODS are the #1 thunderstorm related killer.

Issued Wednesday, Jul 16, 2014 at 1:19 am PDT

National Weather Service - Reno, NV

Abundant moisture will lead to increasing chances for thunderstorms this week. Due to light winds aloft and high moisture content, the storms will produce heavy rain and bring the potential for flash flooding. Flash flooding is possible Wednesday and Thursday in the green shaded area on the map (eastern California and far western Nevada), with the highest potential in the eastern Sierra and Sierra Front south of Highway 50 Wednesday, spreading north to include portions of northeast California and northwest Nevada Thursday. For additional information, refer to the latest Flash Flood Watch

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

Monsoonal moisture sandwiched between an offshore low and an upper level ridge over the southwestern us will continue to draw northward over northern California today. Abundant moisture and an unstable atmosphere will keep the chance of thunderstorms in the forecast for the next few days over Trinity and far eastern Mendocino counties.

San Francisco Weather:

Lingering mid-level moisture across the region will bring a slight chance of sprinkles to portions of the San Francisco Bay Area today. Meanwhile, near seasonal temperatures and typical July weather conditions can be expected through the upcoming weekend as the marine influence returns.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

Sacramento Weather:

Monsoon moisture will bring mostly cloudy skies and near to below normal temperatures through the end of the week. There is a chance of thunderstorms and showers over higher terrain through Saturday including the Sierra, Coastal, and Northern Mountains surrounding interior northern California.

Hanford Weather:

Gradual clearing skies over the region as drier air moves in. The majority of the shower and thunderstorm activity will be located over the crest of the southern Sierra Nevada into Saturday. Temperatures will fall to double digits over the region and generally remain there into next week.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Strong onshore flow will bring extensive low clouds and fog to Coastal and valley areas the next few days, with below normal temperatures for much of the region. By early next week high pressure will begin to rebuild bringing less marine layer clouds and a warming trend.

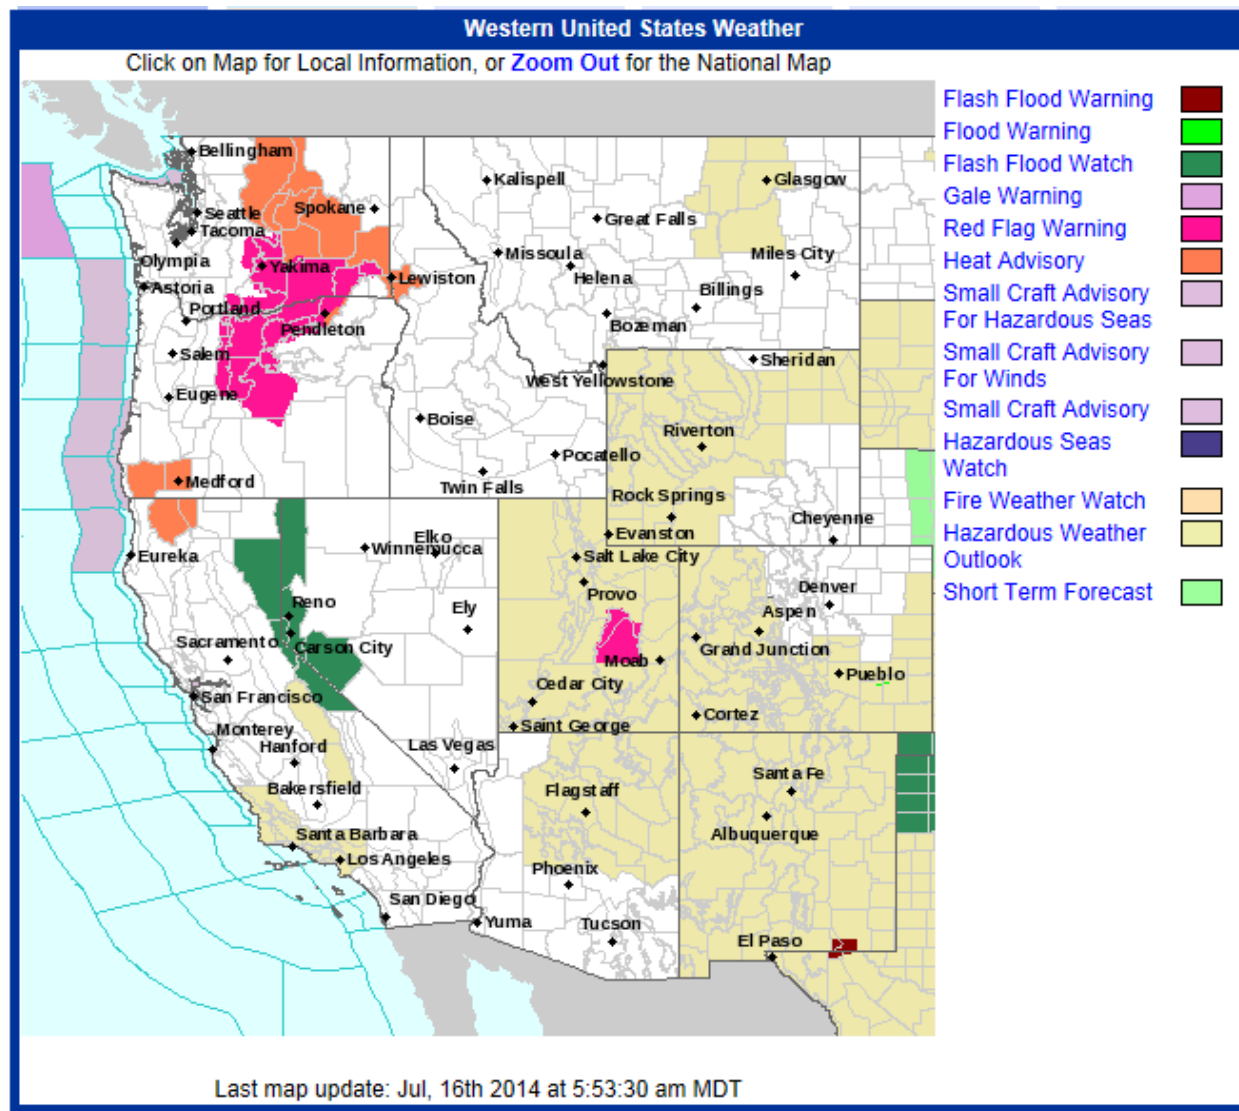

Extreme Southwestern California Including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Dry conditions will continue through the weekend over the mountains and deserts, with monsoon moisture banished to our southeast. Night and morning low clouds west of the mountains through the weekend as well. Expect cloud deck to push into the inland empire and San Diego County valleys through at least Friday. The immediate coast may also struggle to clear each day. A trend toward above normal temperatures will arrive for the start of next week.

Southeast California Weather:

Slight chances still extend into some of the lower desert elevations for this afternoon. Drier air will begin to work into the area from the west, supporting a gradual warming trend and significantly scaling back precipitation chances through Saturday. Moisture and southerly upper level flow will return for the late weekend.

CAL OES ACTIVATIONS

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- The SOC is activated at Level 2 in support of the Drought State of Emergency from 0800-1700 hours daily.
- The Inland REOC is activated at Level 2 from 0800-1700 Monday through Friday or as needed.
- The Southern REOC is activated at Level 1.
- The Santa Barbara County OA EOC is activated at Level 2 to be handled by the duty officer for the purpose of monitoring activities and gaining situational awareness. The operational period is Monday – Friday, 0800-1700 hours.

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

On 7/8/14 the State Water Board will publicly release proposed water conservation requirements to reduce water waste across the state. These proposed emergency regulations include mandatory restrictions on water use, and will be considered by the Water Board on 7/15/14.

The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.

Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.

Open Burn Ban in effect across the state: Open burning is now prohibited on 31 million acres of land across the state, due to a burn ban that CAL FIRE has directed each of its unit chiefs to implement. This ban on open burning in state responsibility areas (outside of cities and towns) reduces wildfire danger amidst extremely dry conditions.
